Foreword from Event Director:

"In 2025 the Brisbane CDI will again be joining with the Queensland Dressage Championships to create an extravaganza of dressage unlike anything we have seen in Queensland before.

As well as beautiful, high quality dressage at the Brisbane CDI we like to bring a little bit of education and break away from straight competition with displays and informative segments on the Saturday to attract spectators.

The Saddlefitter Brisbane CDI is developing a reputation for being a fun, friendly and rider-inclusive event.

I sincerely hope you will join me in bringing my vision for the Brisbane CDI to dressage riders, officials, support crew, enthusiasts, passionate others and the broader community."

Anita Barton – Event Director

What is Dressage?

A French term most commonly translated to mean "training" is a highly skilled form of riding performed in exhibition and competition, as well as an "art" sometimes pursued solely for the sake of mastery. As an equestrian sport dressage is managed globally by the Federation Equestre Internationale (FEI) and within Australia by Equestrian Australia and its state branches.

Dressage is described as "the highest expression of horse training where horse and rider are expected to perform from memory a series of predetermined movements.

Competitions are held at all levels from amateur to the Olympic Games and World Equestrian Games. Its fundamental purpose is to develop, through standardized progressive training methods, a horse's natural athletic ability and willingness to perform, thereby maximizing its potential as a riding horse.

At the peak of a dressage horse's gymnastic development, the horse responds smoothly to a skilled rider's efforts. The rider is relaxed and appears effort-free while the horse willingly performs the requested movement.

2019 Australian Grand Prix Champion Lone Jorgenson (Vic) and Corrina executing an "extended trot".

Riley Alexander (NSW) and Larenso performing highly collected short steps known as "piaffe"

The discipline has a rich history dating back to the ancient Greeks. Modern dressage has evolved as an important equestrian pursuit and has been an Olympic sport since 1912.

Equestrian is the only sport worldwide where men and women compete against each other on equal footing and involves an animal (the horse)!

The standard competition format for world and continental championships and the Olympic Games dressage consists of CDI Grand Prix, CDI Grand Prix Special and CDI Grand Prix Freestyle (Kur) tests. In a Freestyle test, the athlete is free to choose his/her own choreography, although there are a number of compulsory movements required.

Australia has sent a Dressage Team to each Olympic Games since 2000 and before that Australia was represented by individuals.

Social and Economic worth of Equestrian:

In 2017 Equestrian Australia commissioned Street Ryan to report on the community impact of equestrian in Australia. The findings from the report, "Equestrian in Australia: Community Impact Study", are summarised below:

In total, Equestrian in Australia contributes $1.143 billion in benefits to the community. This is made up of $1.130 billion in economic contributions and $12.7 million in health contributions. Equestrian club participants contribution is the highest at $676.4 million (maintenance of horses is the most significant input at $352 million), followed by horse breeding ($169 million), event participation ($106 million), club and association input ($93 million) and equipment retailing, training and coaching ($84 million).

"Social capital is the glue that holds societies together and without which there can be no economic growth or human wellbeing... it is the internal social and cultural coherence of society, the norms and values that govern interactions among people and the institutions in which they are embedded."

Sport makes many positive contributions to the community through social capital and social cohesion, in addition equestrian has a number of unique social strengths:

-  Lifelong participation opportunities
-  Strong family, female and people with a disability participation
-  Structured, disciplined and selfless mindset
-  Outdoor recreational outlet and escape
-  Personal purpose and fulfilment

Participation by individuals in sport provides real benefit to a person's health, regular physical activity and exercise training can:

-  Increase brain size, improve memory and reduce the risk of dementia
-  Reduce the risk of depression and benefit/improve a range of mental health conditions
-  Increase bone mineral density – important for bone strength; reducing risk of fractures and osteoporosis.
-  Reduce the risk of developing type 2 diabetes by 30-40% and for cardiovascular disease
-  Reduce their risk of death from cardiovascular disease by up to 20% to 25%.

Life Long Participation – Far North Queenslander Esther Brooks (74) “Clubbie” of the year 2016 and Benchmark Lets Rock

Equestrian creates a sense of community

Para-Equestrian Bridget Murphy (Vic) and Dracmoore Flirtatious

Generally speaking participants in equestrian sport:

-  Are socially and economically better off and better educated than the general population.
-  Has a high female participation rate comparative to other sports
-  Have a higher level of education comparative to the general population
-  Has a higher ratio of business owners, key decision makers, and professionals as, competitors, participants and followers.
-  Have a higher level of available discretionary spend than the general population

Female Participation:

The Australian Sports Commission recently revealed participation in sport and physical activity among women and girls is strong and growing. 63% of Australian women aged 15 years and over participate in sport and physical activity at least three times a week, compared with 60% of men.

Whilst adult female participation is still focused primarily on non-organised physical activities rather than club sports, this tendency is starting to change. Equestrian Queensland reports an overwhelming majority of female participants (90%). This trend is reinforced by Australia wide participation studies.

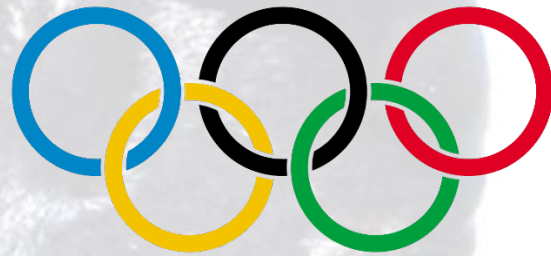

Equestrian is the only Olympic sport where all genders compete directly against each other, and also in many competitions down to grassroots level. At Olympic level, trends in female participation are increasing.

2032 Olympic and Para Olympic Games:

Seven time Olympian Mary Hanna and her mare Calanta, was selected to represent Australia at her sixth Olympic games in Tokyo 2020 and was the travelling reserve for Paris 2024

The Australian Olympic Committee (AOC) has awarded Brisbane and Queensland to host the 2032 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

This is an exciting opportunity to bring equestrian sport to the Queensland public and boosts local interest from up-and-coming interstate and local riders to participate in Queensland events as a part of their long-term goal of competing in the 2032 Brisbane Olympics.

The benefits to the local community in terms of infrastructure and business exposure are unprecedented. The Olympic Games provide global exposure to the community, and represents a wonderful opportunity to place your business products on the world stage.

"You literally couldn't buy the type of name recognition that the Olympics would bring to a city." Brisbane Lord Mayor Adrian Schrinner
